Dr Gary Jackson, Manager Clinical Planning Counties Manukau District Health Board

Dr Gary Jackson, Manager Clinical Planning, CMDHB. Gary is a public health medicine specialist with an interest in the generation, collection, and analysis of information to support evidence-based health care management. After qualifying in medicine in 1985 Gary immediately chose to train in public health, and has been working as a specialist since 1991.

His 17 years working in the field have included 3 years working in the English NHS, rising to a position of Director of Public Health. The range of jobs and organisations worked in New Zealand reflect as much the constant change in health structures in the past as any conscious effort to change jobs. Latterly things have stabilised.

Gary has been with Counties Manukau District Health Board (and its forerunners) since 1998; working in a variety of areas including health needs analysis, strategic planning, and future health capacity planning and development. He has been involved in national technical work on population based funding, national pricing and tertiary services, and with the management and training of registrars for the Faculty of Public Health.
